

In Solemn Service

Close the Century.

In the Catholic churches of this city last night services of the most interesting and remarkable character were celebrated, and before in the lives of the thousands that thronged the sanctuaries was the theme that of last night, and never again will any of those that bowed their heads in prayer do so again for the same purpose.

In obedience to the Pope's decree Catholics sought their church to unite in praise and thanksgiving for the century of life and progress that was closing with the night, and to kneel in hope and pleading for the good that may come with the century that would dawn before the day.

At 7 o'clock the sacred edifices were crowded to the door. The sanctuaries were adorned as only for the great festivals of the ecclesiastical year. The splendid altars blazed with a wealth of lights and glistening ornaments that reflected their dazzling beauty a thousand fold. Banners of ferns and palms and chaste flowers made a striking foreground to the exiguous altars. The scene, beautiful in itself, won new significance from the purpose for which it was created. Here and there superbly robed priests moved to and fro in the various phases of the solemn service that in its dignity and impressiveness was chantied as the last tribute of Catholic Christians to the dying century.

Psalms and songs of praise floated from organs and choirs in answer to the chants of the vespers service. Then all the vast congregations, assembled in many churches, were on their knees to receive the solemn benediction which closed a passing century and welcomed a coming era. Splendid in their ritualism, enhanced by the attending magnificence of light and color and sound, the services moved the senses and held the imagination. And the words spoken from the pulpits were those of the triumphs and trials, the good and evil, of the hundred years that had been counted into history.

In many of the sanctuaries the imposing ceremonies of the night ended by the singing of the Te Deum by the congregations. The time and the occasion, the vast throngs that flocked to so many places of worship, the splendor of decoration and gorgeousness of ceremonial made the event one that will be long remembered in San Francisco.

By authority of the Pope's decree the Catholics of this city could have participated in the service at midnight mass in their churches. Such a spectacle is unknown to the generation and it was feared that the churches would be overtaxed and that some accident might happen. Vicar General Prendergast decided therefore that no mass would be celebrated in any of the large local sanctuaries. In private chapels, however, there was no restriction, and in them at the hour of midnight at the very meeting of the centuries, hundreds of little communities met at ancient shrines to offer their praise and worship.

In connection with these remarkable ceremonies the controversy regarding the close of the century has received a local interest. Rev. Father Peter C. Yorke, whose opinion naturally is entitled to great consideration, says that the century unquestionably closed last night at midnight of December 31 of this year, as most of his disputants insist. The reverend gentleman argues that the Christian era began with the birth of Christ and not with the Savior was yet very young; that in our calculation we must begin with the year caught and not with the year one. If this calculation be observed we will not count our years until we have passed them and when we register the year 1900 we have recorded the passage of nineteen centuries.

THE GLORY OF A CENTURY NOW DEAD

In no other Catholic church in the city perhaps were the services in honor of the closing century more imposing than they were at St. Peter's Church. The sacred edifice was splendidly adorned as if for the greatest festival of the ecclesiastical year. Myriads of lights glistened and flashed upon the altars. Palms and rare plants shed their fragrance and gave new beauty to the sanctuary. The service was as imposing and as dignified as a splendid ritual could endow it. Solemn vespers, the benediction and the Te Deum were chanted in honor of the century that was dying.

The pastor, Rev. Father Peter C. Yorke, was eloquent in his sermon of the night. His theme was the century that was dying. In part he spoke as follows:

"At the chest of the Holy Father, my brethren, we celebrate this the last day of the old year with solemn prayer and thanksgiving. Not only do we close the year, but we close the century. Therefore there is a special reason why we should look back on the past hundred years and glorify God, who has done such great things for his church and people."

"A hundred years ago the moral world looked as the physical world may have looked after the great deluge. The foundations of the great deep had been broken up and the French revolution had swept away the ancient landmarks in church and state. Never had things looked so black. Infidelity, brutal and brutalizing, was rampant in the countries that had remained faithful during the reformation. In Protestant lands Catholics were the survivors of three centuries of persecution—coward, timid, without money, without votes, without influence—the pebbles, as Newman says—the detritus of the great deluge. In America the Latin countries were tainted with the disease that plagued the motherlands. In the United States we were but a handful, deprived in most of the States of our rights as citizens or newly enfranchised. Never had the Papacy sunk so low. If it were possible for the church to fall the beginning of the century saw her failure."

"The darkest hour was before the dawn. When the storm was at its height God was sweetly disposing all things for his own good purposes. The early years of the century saw the restoration of morality and religion to France. Napoleon recognized that there could be no state unless God was recognized and he brought back the church, not for love of the church, but because he thought he could use her. When he tried to bend her to his ambition he found himself face to face with a power he could not conquer. The Pope went into prison rather than betray the trust committed to him by Christ. Napoleon fell as all those who make war on God, but the Papacy remained. His dynasty has gone forever, but the church still there."

"Not since the time when the prophet, saw the dry bones come together and live was there such an awakening as that of the church in English-speaking countries. When the century was beginning Daniel O'Connell was cherishing the dream of restoring liberty to his fellow Irishmen. The first quarter of the century saw his struggle. He is the hero of religious liberty in English-speaking lands. He is the one leader who took as his text and made it his life work. He succeeded, and the tremendous growth of the Church in Ireland and Great Britain, in Canada and Australia, is the result of Daniel O'Connell's agitation.

seemed to be ended forever. To-day her walls are lifted up in beauty. She resounds with the voice of gladness. Her children throng round the altar and the sacrifice is offered up from the rising of the sun to the going down of the same, for the Lord hath promised the gates of hell shall not prevail."

"If the resurrection of the church in the old world has been wondrous, not less wondrous has been its planting and its growth here in this new republic. A hundred years ago we were nothing in the domain covered by the United States—some 80,000 of Irish and English descent.

wisest of those who are outside recognize that we alone have a religion big enough for a big country.

"Therefore we have reason to rejoice and be glad, not for selfish or personal reasons, but because we believe that God has established his church for the benefit of mankind, and that it is to the advantage of all men to belong to that church. I would to God," said the apostle, "that both in a little and in much, not only thou but also all that hear me this day should become such as I also am, except these bands."

That is our prayer for our fellow citizens, of God. He said in part:

pressive services at St. Mary's Cathedral, Van Ness and O'Farrell street, last night. There were vespers and the benediction, with the special feature of the "Te Deum." Rev. Father Prendergast preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion.

Nearly every pew in the big cathedral was occupied. The music was superb, especially the solos. Father Prendergast dwelt in his sermon upon the perishability of time, and sought to impress upon the congregation the importance and the duty of taking advantage of the precious gift from him who controls all things. God is the source of life and the whole creation. Time—so perishable and yet so precious—is the gift of our Lord and Father. The good that it is to us can be measured by its duration, the spiritual benefit we take from it and the moral exultation we receive. It partakes of the immensity of eternity.

"Why do men rejoice and exchange congratulations on New Year's day? Because another year has rolled by and that their allotted portion of time has been shortened to that extent? Do those who cheer and congratulate stop to think? No good. Let us not write them in the sand. Write them deeper. Engrave them on our souls. Do not put off until to-morrow what you should do to-day, and what you do, do well."

FATHER WYMAN AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

The Paulist Fathers at St. Mary's Church made a special feature of their usual vespers service last night. At the close of the benediction the German choral "Te Deum" was sung by the choir, composed of sopranos, Miss Paula, Miss Higgins and Miss Johnson; contraltos, Miss Josie Murphy and Miss Nettie Johnson; tenors, W. Moore and Dr. J. F. Smith; basso, W. G. O'Brien; organist, Miss Giorgiani. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Wyman. He said in part:

"This is a special year in the Catholic church. The holy Father in Rome has ordered that the opening of the new century shall be recognized by a midnight mass or the day is to be marked with some special form of praise. The services to-night will be followed by the singing of the "Te Deum" as a sign of our thankfulness to God for his kindly guardianship over us in the past. God has given great blessings to the Christian people in the past and the great blessings that we may hope God will send will be ours if we are only faithful."

"God works, as we know, in hidden yet most effective ways, for the benefit of his people. The benefits of God are known and most deeply appreciated by those who think seriously and most desire those things which are of lasting value. The superficial mind does not always see what is most real and substantial and as a rule has little appreciation of what it receives. On the other hand, those who are led by divine wisdom find in the acts of providence infinitely more blessings than it is possible to suppose God would give to such weak creatures as we are."

IMPRESSIVE MUSIC AT ST. IGNATIUS

Services in St. Ignatius Church last night were solemn and beautiful. The sacred edifice was brilliantly lighted and was crowded with worshippers who offered up thanks for blessings received during the past year, and prayed for a continuance of them during the next twelve months. Rev. Father Prelato, S. J., recited the Rosary and Litany, and then vespers, the responses being made by Rev. Angelo Coitelli, S. J. The choir augmented for the occasion by the ladies' sodality, choir, rendered sweet music during the services. Rev. Father Frieden, S. J., delivered the sermon. It was an eloquent effort and touched the auditors. In part he said:

"We have assembled before God's altar to-night to thank the Almighty for the good things that have come to us in the course of the year which is now drawing to its close. Yes, the year is well nigh passed—out a few hours to remain. It is for the last time in the year '99 that the preacher speaks to you from this pulpit; the last time you adore our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament and receive his benediction. And what has become of the year? This day, which is made of one more—than have passed—will be eternally. And with the passing of time, we ourselves have passed; and at the close of the year we are one year nearer to eternity."

"God grant to the members of this religious community and to all those who have recourse to our ministrations a season of virtue and holiness; a time of such happiness as can be had here below. May we share in that sweet contentment of soul, in that precious peace, which indeed the world cannot give, but which is the heavenly heritage of men of good will. May the divine blessing descend upon your household and may it ever dwell there. May the great God bless those whose descending years remind them that eternity is not far off; and may he bless the young, lest the health and strength of body that God has bestowed prove the ruins of their virtue; may the Almighty guide them to the rich, that they may prize the wealth of a holy life and cling to the treasures of heavenly merit; and may the same sweet Lord graciously bless and console the needy, that their poverty may help them to lay up for themselves treasures in heaven. May he who so loves the Father of all, bless you and yours when you are in health, and may he bless you more abundantly when sickness visits your home. May blessings from God be upon you in the day of joy and prosperity, and may it not depart from you when in the unsearchable ways of Providence the hand of the Lord has toiled."

"That these blessings may come to you, my dear brethren, we pray. And so we wish you, from the bottom of our hearts, a happy and holy new year—in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

At the conclusion of the singing of the Te Deum there was solemn benediction.

LESSONS THE OLD YEAR TEACHES US

At St. Francis Church, Vallejo and Montgomery avenue, the New Year was observed at the evening vespers service. Rev. Father Morton preached the sermon. He said: "My dear people assembled here together at the call of the Bishop of San Francisco. We all rejoice for the blessings we have received in the past and we should also ask for a renewal of the blessings in the future. The new year should remind us that we are only here for a short time. It is certain that we all must die, and we shall then be judged for our good and bad deeds. It is appointed that we must die. The patriarchs lived for over a hundred years, but even they were mortal. So will all the future generations die. The church bell tolls for our friends, but who can tell how soon will the same bell toll for us. God has mapped out our lives and the time when he called to call us. The church taught us to say 'Eat, drink and be merry' may be the first one called. We may ask ourselves, shall I go while I am walking on the street? Shall I receive the sacraments?"

"We cannot answer these questions. But we can help in our life, if as we say, our evening prayers we study ourselves, and find out if we are prepared. This eve of the nineteenth century let us make a new resolution to lead better lives. Time obliterates many things. The deeds of our greatest heroes are forgotten, and there are but few true hearts that beat responsive to their names. Their memory has faded with the days. To us all that remains of the past is our accountability for sin and our reward for our sacrifices."

"This is the time for resolutions for the new year. The church taught us to say 'Eat, drink and be merry' may be the first one called. We may ask ourselves, shall I go while I am walking on the street? Shall I receive the sacraments?"

INSPIRING SCENE IN ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL.

"To him and to his methods we owe the great campaigns in favor of religious liberty carried on by Montalembert in France and Windthorst in Germany. The result of these campaigns was to prove to the world that the ancient church had, like the eagle, renewed her youth. Her children were as devoted as ever, her influence as potent, her doctrine as inspiring. Compare the condition of the church in Europe in the year 1800 with her condition now, on the threshold of the year 1900. Then she lay, dead and desolate. The Gentiles trod her ruined courts and the sacrifice in Maryland and Pennsylvania, a few French missionaries with the Indians in the West, the ruined pueblos of the southwest and the chain of missions along the Californian coast. In a hundred years we have not only kept pace with the growth of population, but we have outstripped it. We have met prejudice and persecution, but they fought against us in vain. In the beginning we were despised and hated, then we were feared and hated; now men wonder at us, but hate us none the less. The Catholic has his position in American life too secure to be ever seriously menaced, and the hope of that consummation tinges our prayers and our thanksgivings. The shepherd stands upon the mountains and numbers his sheep. May he grant that before the new century ends his prophecy shall be fulfilled and there shall be one fold and one shepherd."

SOLEMN SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL

The closing of the century was commemorated by the most solemn and impressive services at St. Mary's Cathedral, Van Ness and O'Farrell street, last night. There were vespers and the benediction, with the special feature of the "Te Deum." Rev. Father Prendergast preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion.

FENIANS SAID TO BE BUSY ON FRONTIER

Report That They Are Storing Arms Near the Canadian Boundary.

FARMERS LEND AID

Agents Among Them to Procure Horses and Wagons for Transportation Purposes.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—A morning paper has the following: The Fenians are engaged in storing vast quantities of dynamite, lyddite ammunition and supplies in a few selected repositories in remote rural districts of Vermont and Maine, near the Canadian boundary. This is the most active move yet taken in the plans for the invasion of Canada. Dynamite has been stored underground in a number of masked excavations and caves on the Vermont border while great quantities of canned meats have been hidden in barns owned by sympathizing farmers on the Maine line near New Hampshire. A large and efficient ambulance corps is being organized under the supervision of a number of women and surgeons who were in the Red Cross work in Cuba. They are preparing a large number of first-aid packages for the invading force. One phase of the campaign has been hatched out, except notice heretofore is that effecting the farming districts of New England. The general supposition, of course, is that the movement is the work of the Irishmen of the farms of the state of Connecticut, but it is a fact that work is being done among the farmers, who can furnish wagons and horses and carts for transportation purposes, as this is regarded as a most important article. A caravanserai is being made of the small road branches in Northern New England and places being located where the roads could be captured by a very small force.

GOTHAM MASS-MEETING GIVES CHEER TO BOERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—United Irish societies of New York and vicinity filled the Academy of Music to-night at a mass-meeting called to express sympathy with the Boers and opposition to England in consequence of the South African war. Senator Mason of Illinois, Congressman Sulzer, Congressman Cummings of New York and others addressed the meeting. Justice Fitzgerald of the Supreme Court presided over the meeting, which was opened with a benediction. The pro-southern, the box-and the balconies were all decorated with a profusion of American flags, the green Irish emblems and occasionally the flags of the South African republics. Justice Fitzgerald, after calling the meeting to order, said:

It is a great honor to be asked to speak to this great audience to-night and to join in expressing our deep indignation at the unjustifiable war now being waged in South Africa. The pro-southern, the box-and the balconies were all decorated with a profusion of American flags, the green Irish emblems and occasionally the flags of the South African republics. Justice Fitzgerald, after calling the meeting to order, said:

Congressman Sulzer spoke next. He said in part:

I am not ashamed to have known that my sympathy is with the heroic Boers in their noble struggle to maintain their independence against the piracy and tyranny of the British crown. I want to see them win in this contest because they are right and we are wrong.

The majority of the American people are against England in this matter and in sympathy with the South African patriots. The Boers have fought with tremendous odds and have challenged the admiration of mankind, and their heroism against almost unconquerable obstacles has won the entire world over to their cause.

The great heart of the American people goes out to the Boers of South Africa.

They are fighting for the same principles: they are against the same sovereign and red-handed soldiers that fought a century ago. We will see to-morrow if the world dared thought it could afford them.

I am not ashamed to have known that my sympathy is with the heroic Boers in their noble struggle to maintain their independence against the piracy and tyranny of the British crown. I want to see them win in this contest because they are right and we are wrong.

The majority of the American people are against England in this matter and in sympathy with the South African patriots.

The Boers have fought with tremendous odds and have challenged the admiration of mankind, and their hero

TO BE DONE FORTHWITH.

MAJOR PHELAN’S reason for vetoing the order of the Supervisors imposing a license tax upon nickel-in-the-slot telephone machines is sufficiently valid to justify him in his action, provided he keeps the promise made in the veto to submit to the Supervisors “forthwith” a new resolution to the same purpose. The reason, however, will not be deemed good by the people if it turns out to be no more than another means of delaying the issue and taking it out of the hands of this board.

The Mayor’s words are worth noting. He says:

“The only reason for my objection is that City and County Attorney Lane advised the board before the passage of the order that it was illegal and would not stand in the courts. If this is true it would be of no value but only expense to the city to enact the order, and if it is not true it could only be determined after a suit in which the City and County Attorney himself would have to defend the action, and having given an opinion against the validity of the order he would be in no position to defend it. In conference with him we have agreed to submit an order which will answer the legal objections. It will be forthwith submitted to your honorable board for enactment.”

Under the circumstances, as the term of the present board is about to close, the Mayor’s promise to submit his revised order forthwith will have no value to anybody except the telephone corporations, unless it mean the order shall be submitted to the board at its meeting on Tuesday. If it be not so submitted the Supervisors should pass the former order over the veto.

The reasons for prompt action in this matter are imperative. The present Board of Supervisors has undertaken the legislation embodied in the order and is entitled to the credit and the honor of carrying it to success. It is well known that the telephone corporations are fighting for delay. They have sought to obtain it upon one excuse or another ever since the order was introduced. They are urging it now and the Mayor will play into their hands if he makes delay. The new board might pass the order if submitted to them, but their action is uncertain, while that of the present board is certain. It is not expedient to take chances with a monopoly so wily and so grasping as that which controls our telephone system. Let the order be submitted and enacted forthwith.

The operation of the new charter has already caused a glut in the local lightning rod market. Mayor Phelan had a large quantity of official electric fluid to discharge, but judging from the number of rods taken down yesterday and stored for future use, he had not enough to go around.

While the people of two hemispheres are still waxing blue in the face over the end of this and the beginning of the next century problem, “Me and Gott” has settled it out of hand in his own lordly fashion. He says this is the twentieth. That ought to settle it—in Germany at least.

“Suicide Concludes a Seven-Year Courtship” was the heading recently on a Chicago dispatch. At first glance readers were inclined to believe it heralded some poor fellow’s plunge into the sea of matrimony. Reading farther on they found he had only shot himself to death.

The famous game of “draw” as played in the West has won new laurels. In a game at Auburn and another at Redding two players failed to draw quickly enough, and the Coroner finished the proceedings.

The people of the Camarines district, Philippine Islands, complain that they are unable to market their hemp. Can it be possible they have San Francisco juries down that way?

If the members of the local Democratic “organization” arrayed in war with one another continue to tell all they know they will save others the trouble later on.

Texas Populists have adopted as their war cry for 1900 “Down With Fusion!” They probably think it’s a new blend of whisky.

THE NEW COMMISSIONS.

Of the Mayor’s selections of Commissioners to administer the various branches of the municipal government under the new charter, it may be said as was said of the ten virgins in the parable, some are wise and some are foolish. It is to be regretted that the Mayor has shown the worst judgment in the very appointments where he should have exercised his best.

Taking the list in the order given out and published yesterday, and reviewing it as a whole, the first commission, that of the Board of Public Works, will meet with general approval. It is excellent in every respect. Following it is the Civil Service Commission, which has been very inadequately filled. The appointees are not strong men and as a body the commission is likely to fall below the level of the responsibilities imposed upon it. The appointees to the Board of Education are also unsatisfactory. The Police Commission is fairly well made up. On the Fire Commission two good men have been named and they may perhaps control the board and make it an efficient body. The Election Commission will pass as good. The Park Commission is excellent and the same commendation can be given to the Board of Health.

It will be seen that the two commissions to which the weakest appointments have been made are the Civil Service and the Board of Education. Now it is upon these two commissions that the most important reforms and administrative work under the new charter are to be carried out. The foundation of the whole new charter system of government rests upon the regulation of the civil service. That commission will have to resist and to overcome all the push and the pull of the job chasers and the bosses; it will have to put aside every temptation toward partiality or favoritism, no matter upon what consideration they be urged. Bad men or weak; men who are intense partisans or who are inclined to use official power for their own advantage can readily find means to evade the civil service regulations and advance unworthy favorites to office. The Call does not charge that the Commissioners appointed by the Mayor will misuse their authority and turn their office into a patronage bureau, but it does say the importance of the civil service to the municipality under the new charter is so great that the men chosen to administer it should have been among the strongest and most eminent in the city. The public will not have full confidence in the Commissioners until they win it by the merit of their service and it is to be hoped that merit will be shown.

The Board of Education has charge of a work whose importance it would be difficult to overestimate. It will have to undertake something like a radical reform of the schools, for it is well known that for years past every successive School Board has furnished the city with scandalous jobs or frauds of some kind. The variety, the extent and the degree of evils caused to public education by corrupt or inefficient school boards have long been the subject of indignant comment and formed the theme of the main discussion at the recent convention of the Teachers’ Association. It is therefore with deep concern the public will note the weakness of the Mayor’s appointments to that board.

Protest against the appointments is of course unavoidable. The people, however, will note the weak places in the administration that is to direct municipal affairs in the inauguration of the new charter, and will be prompt to note any sign of inefficiency or evidence of bad intent. The sanguine spirit that now animates nearly all classes of citizens will incline them to expect the best results, but it will not blind them to faults or frauds; and while honor will be given where honor is due, there will be swift and sharp condemnation of any official or any commission that betrays the popular confidence that with the new charter and the new era, there are to be, along with prosperity and improvement, a marked degree of efficiency, honesty and civic patriotism in every department of the municipal administration.

From the great advance which has been made since the beginning of the century, it is certainly reasonable to draw auguries of a still greater advance in the century to come. Science and mechanical ingenuity have accomplished marvels in drawing men into closer communication and relationship to one another, and with that has come a diminution of racial enemies. The industrial forces that make for peace increase with the years, and the enlightened body of men and women who oppose wars grows in numbers and in prestige. It is still a military world. The nations were never before so universally armed, nor did they ever watch one another with more of jealousy. Nevertheless it was never before so peaceful a world, nor did the nations ever before have so many alliances that tend to the maintenance of peace.

Considered from every point of view, therefore, the century has given good reason for the highest hopes of humanity. In all the tides of time never was there such progress made in any other century, and never did a New Year’s day dawn that brought to the world so bright a prospect and so strong a promise of coming good.

We sleep and wake and sleep, but all things move, The sun flies onward to his brother sun; The dark earth follows wheeled in her ellipse, And human things, returning on themselves, Move onward, leading up the golden year.

ROBERTS AND KITCHENER.

NOW and then expectations are realized in this uncertain world, and the commercial year of 1899 was one of these pleasant exceptions. In volume of business and magnitude of profits it broke all previous records. Indeed, it exceeded the most sanguine anticipations in the upward movement of values. Taking the bank clearings of the country as an index the volume of business was 74 per cent larger than in 1897 and 51 per cent larger than in 1892, the year preceding the panic. The failures, too, were the smallest in seventeen years, but the collapse of speculation in copper and the consequent failures in Boston a week or two ago added over $18,000,000 to the year’s liabilities. Including this serious amount the liabilities in 1899 were $120,000,000, of which $89,260,000 were commercial and the balance banking, most of the latter being charged up to Boston, and within a fortnight. The average of liabilities to failures was $9500, the smallest average in twenty-five years. The best showing of the year was made by the Southern and Pacific States, where the decrease in failures from 1898 was 33 per cent. The railroads added their share to the general prosperity, their gross and net receipts exceeding all records. Railroad building was the heaviest since 1890, double the average of the preceding four years and 50 per cent more than in 1898.

The export trade of the country made an equally fine showing. It footed up almost $1,280,000,000, or about 3 per cent over 1898, which was the largest previous year. Manufactured goods are credited with most of the gain in 1899, as breadstuffs and cotton fell off 15 per cent each, the latter in consequence of a decreased crop, and cattle and hogs 12 per cent. The imports from foreign countries during the year amounted to about $800,000,000, which gives us a total foreign trade of about $2,000,000,000, which, it is unnecessary to say, has never been equaled. It was a manufacturers’ rather than a producers’ year, as manufactured products advanced in price all around, with a greatly increased output, while cereals declined about 6 per cent, with diminished shipments abroad. Metals advanced about 50 per cent over 1898. The other advances are in raw cotton and wool, coal, hides and leather, provisions of all kinds and live stock, not to mention hundreds of lesser products. The appreciation in wool was 35 per cent and in cotton 29.5 per cent. The heavy increase in imports of raw material during the year shows the intense activity of our manufacturing plants. The balance of trade in favor of the United States, while not as large as in 1898, owing to the increase in imports, still aggregated an enormous amount.

The prospects for the coming year are fully as flattering as on January 1, 1899. Most manufacturing lines have entered the new year with order books filled from three to six months ahead. The iron output is contracted for far into the year, say from six to nine months. The tremendous activity in iron and steel was the great feature of the year.

Columns would be required to enumerate the increase in business in the different lines, hence only the important ones are mentioned. The only cloud during the whole year was the reckless formation of gigantic trusts, many of them topheavy and overcapitalized, and the wild speculation in them by Wall street. Had it not been for the exceptionally strong position of legitimate business a serious panic would probably have resulted. But through all the tight-money scare in Wall street for several months back the genuine trade of the country has moved along with hardly a ripple. Wall street has had its lesson and it is to be hoped that it will profit by it.

As for California, nothing is to be said except that the prospects for 1900 could not be better. Copious rains have practically insured abundant crops, the merchants are doing the largest business for years, money is easy and collections good, and the croaker has disappeared from the land.

THE NEW YEAR.

WHETHER we count it the last year of a fading century or the first of a new one, 1900 will still have a particular significance to the world. It has been marked at its beginning by the most solemn services of the church, is to be commemorated in the most splendid capital of the world by an exposition of unsurpassed magnificence and beauty, and promises to be for the world at large, despite the portentous war in South Africa, a period of unexampled prosperity.

Carlyle has told us: “There are ten thousand times ten thousand clocks in the world to sound with clangor the alarm as the day passes on from hour to hour, but there is no sound heard from the great horologue of eternity to warn the soul as the ages sweep from eon to eon.” Man of his own volition must stop and count and make note, if he would mark the procession of centuries and measure how far he has mounted upward to higher levels of life in the course of any one of them.

LEO DESIGNATES CARDINAL GOTTI AS HIS SUCCESSOR

ROME, Dec. 31.—It is asserted that the Pope after the recent ceremony of opening the holy door at St. Peter's Cathedral addressed his intimate intourage and said:

"I thank Divine Providence for granting me the grace of being able to celebrate this great function, and I wish for my successor grandeur and a long reign, to the greater glory of God. My successor will be young as compared with my own age, and will have time to see many glories of the papacy and the church."

Later Leo clearly designated Cardinal Girolamo Maria Gotti, prefect of the congregation of indulgences and sacred relics, as his successor.

It is hard to tell how the candidature of Cardinal Gotti sprang into existence. He is a monk of the barefooted Carmelite order, and is as Ligurian as Pope Julius II. But he holds himself apart from the miseries of the world like Sextus V before he threw away his crutches. He displayed diplomatic qualities of the highest order in the mission to Brazil confided to him by Leo XIII.

In that country, in addition to the conflict going on between the civil and religious authorities, the church was in considerable danger on account of the lack of discipline which prevailed among the clergy and the episcopate. To the great astonishment of every one the Pope selected the superior of the barefooted Carmelites, who happened to be Father Gotti, to put an end to disorder and re-establish harmony between the religious and civil powers.

Father Gotti in two or three years triumphed over all difficulties and his success was so complete that on his return the holy father decreed him a Cardinal's hat. Greatness appears to have no temptations for Cardinal Gotti, for though clothed in purple, he occupies a very modest room at the Forum of Trajan and sleeps on a monk's bed. His political tendencies are unknown and he may be either a conciliatory Pope or a fighting Pope, according to his personal inclination and to the character of the majority which places him in St. Peter's chair.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States bids fair to be accomplished. For several days an attack of one of the principal United States embassies has been here, having long interviews with the Danish Minister of Finance, Dr. Henningsen, and the Danish Minister, Christian, who went to Washington to assist in the publication of the American official order. No opposition is expected from King Christian. The price has been fixed at $4,000,000.

BATTLE IN A CHINESE JUNK

Illicit Shrimp Fishers Resist Arrest.

Threaten the Constable

Display of Weapons Brings Them to Time.

Twenty Members of the King Ow Yung Company Arrested and Their Junks Held as Evidence.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

SAN RAFAEL, Dec. 31.—A hand-to-hand fight in a plunging, rolling junk between desperate skin fishers and San Rafael officials took place to-day. The men were caught red-handed with the holds of their craft filled up with small fish and shrimps caught with the aid of the forbidden "set net."

Last night Constable George Agnew received word from Point San Pedro that the fishermen of King Ow Yung's combine were using the proscribed nets and also mingling a plentiful sprinkling of "small fry" along with their lawful prey of shrimps. At dawn this morning Agnew, accompanied by Deputy Fish Commissioner Alfonso Miller and several deputies, left for the scene. On their arrival they found the junks were out at sea, and surmising that the fishermen were at their work, the officials embarked in a swift sloop to effect their capture. All the junks but one yielded quietly to the representatives of the law and took their way shoreward to await a launch to tow them back to San Rafael. The exception ran up her sail and stood out across the horizon to the Pabon. Taking the situation the officers gave chase and for about half an hour the two craft tore through the water with their lee rails submerged. The boat succeeded in getting the two craft roll against each other and the clumsy junk with her ponderous sweep threatened to smash the smaller boat. Agnew, however, was able to hold his assailants, but even with this auxiliary it is doubtful if he would have been able to keep them off had not Miller seen his plight and sent three bullets crashing in the inopportune proximity to the Orientals' craft.

This brought them to time and no further difficulty was experienced with them.

The arrested men, twenty in all, belong to the King Ow Yung Company and are among the worst skin fishers, most persistent in the persecution of the Yung Wo fishermen, who, by refusing to join the Yung combine, brought the hatred of the whole fishing community to their heads.

Twenty men will be held in San Rafael to be used as evidence against the prisoners. The various factions of the camp at Point San Pedro have for a long time been at odds and the frequent arrests which have occurred of late will add fuel to the fire and a general war of the tongs is feared to be imminent.

Twenty men will be held in San Rafael to be used as evidence against the prisoners. The various factions of the camp at Point San Pedro have for a long time been at odds and the frequent arrests which have occurred of late will add fuel to the fire and a general war of the tongs is feared to be imminent.

This brought them to time and no further difficulty was experienced with them.

The arrested men, twenty in all, belong to the King Ow Yung Company and are among the worst skin fishers, most persistent in the persecution of the Yung Wo fishermen, who, by refusing to join the Yung combine, brought the hatred of the whole fishing community to their heads.

HIGHBINDERS WHO WILL HAVE CHEONG'S BLOOD

Spirited Away on an Old Warrant.

HE IS DOOMED TO DIE

ATTORNEY JAMES MAKES A STARTLING STATEMENT.

A Chinese Merchant Arrested Here and Taken to San Jose as Part of a Scheme to Kill Him.

If what Attorney James of San Jose says be true, Ah Cheong, a Chinese merchant, is the victim of a deep conspiracy, with the murder of Cheong for its object.

Last Saturday Cheong was arrested in this city on a warrant issued by a Justice of the Peace of Santa Clara, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon. He was taken to the City Prison and remained in it on the necessary bonds. In some way several of his friends learned of his arrest, and they lost no time in consulting Attorney James. They determined to do their part in this deep-in-the-pit plot to get hold of him and then put him out of the way. The attorney, after satisfying himself that the men were telling the truth, went to a Superior Judge of the Santa Clara County and obtained an order for the release of the prisoner. After securing the document, James took the first train for this city, arriving at 10:30 a.m. of yesterday morning, and once reported to the City Prison, and to his great surprise, found that Cheong had only a short time before had been turned over to a Constable of Santa Clara.

"It is all over now," remarked James to Sergeant Wright. "I doubt if he will ever reach San Jose."

When asked what he meant the attorney said he had positive proof that the enemies of Cheong had conspired to assassinate him.

Inable to induce him to visit Santa Clara, they caused to be issued a warrant charging him with an assault with a deadly weapon. The warrant was issued to last October and placed in the hands of an officer to be served. A few days later it disappeared, and was supposed to have been lost. It was not until yesterday, when the conspirators learned that Cheong was in this city, and then they promptly resuscitated it. The warrant was issued and given to Police Commissioner Hutchings, who found Cheong on Washington street and placed him under arrest.

Cheong formerly lived in Santa Clara, but had moved to San Jose, where, according to his enemies, he was waiting to kill him. He came to this city, Attorney James returned to San Jose last evening, determined to prevent the conspirators from carrying out their diabolical scheme, and incidentally to bring them to justice.

WON SUCCESS AND FAME.

California Songstress Returns From the East With Vaudeville Laurels.

Miss Dunn M. Cann, a San Franciscan girl, who made her debut at the Orpheum three years ago, has returned from New York on a flying visit. The illness of her mother, who lives in Sacramento, was the reason of her trip.

Miss Cann has won the highest honors to be attained on the vaudeville stage. Since her departure from San Francisco she has sung before New York and Boston audiences with marked approval and success. She sang again at the St. James and Queen's Hall theaters, the highest class concert halls in the metropolis. Miss Cann's voice is a rich, deep contralto, and she has studied music, both vocal and instrumental.

Pain Conquered; Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINEKAN NO. 92449]

"I feel it my duty to write and thank you for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. It is the only medicine I have found that has done me any good. Before taking your medicine, I was all run down, tired all the time, no appetite, pains in my back and bearing down pains and a great suffer during menstruation. After taking two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I am now on my fourth bottle and all my pains have left me. I feel better than I have felt for three years and would recommend your Compound to every suffering woman. I hope this letter will help others to find a cure for their troubles." — MRS. DELLA REMICKER, RENSELAKER, IND.

The serious ills of women develop from neglect of early symptoms. Every pain and ache has a cause, and the warning they give should not be disregarded.

Mrs. Pinkham understands these troubles better than any local physician and will give every woman free advice who is puzzled about her health. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. Don't put off writing until health is completely broken down. Write at the first indication of trouble.

BELATED SHIPS ARE ARRIVING IN GOOD ORDER

Six of the Overdues Have Made Port.

FAST RUN OF A FRENCH BARK

MARGUERITE MOLINOS OUT-SAILS NINE OTHERS.

Dead Whale Taken for a Derelict—A Big Fleet of Deep-Water Ships Reported Outside—Trouble on the Gaelic.

The overdue fleet kept the pilots busy yesterday. Early in the day about a dozen deep water vessels showed up on the bar, and half that number had not yet port before sunset. The commander finding the weather unfavorable stood off shore and will probably get in to-day. In order to be ready for them the pilot boats were kept outside and the tug Fearless took out a dozen pilots to pull the vanscares caused by the incoming fleet.

Five of the arrivals are coal laden and their arrival will tend to relieve the stringency in the fuel market. The sixth vessel is nearly as welcome, as she is loaded with nitrate. The powder company has been anxiously looking for her during the past week.

The banner run of the season has been made by the French bark Marguerite Molinos. Both she and the British bark Invermay arrived from Swansea yesterday, but the Britisher was 160 days making the run while the Frenchman made it in 13, the best passage of the year. The vessel was well received, and the passage from Swansea was the Invermay, now out 120; Inverloch, 129; Pass of Killiecrankie, 146; Cassaro, 148; Normandie, 150; Guerne, 157; and General Neumann, 159.

The owners of the vessel have reimbursed their risks on the vessels, as per cent being paid on the tonnage.

The British ship Godiva, on which 7 per cent was paid on the tonnage, came in yesterday with the Majore and had an experience similar to that vessel.

She was off port a couple of days ago, but owing to a change of wind was unable to enter port.

The British bark Australia, 200 per cent insurance was paid and the gamblers were pleased when she came sailing into port. The vessel was 168 days out from Cardiff and it was feared that her cargo of coal would be lost.

The British ship Hornet, which had been strong in hard common sense, and in simplicity sublime. He was a safe counselor of and leader, and in his great canary-colored coat he measured up to the standards of all the genius of a Grant.

The monuments of his life's work are the great school at Northfield, where 3,000 students have been educated, the Chicago Avenue church, which is indeed a masterpiece of architecture, and the Bible Institute in Chicago.

He took his stand on the impregnable rock of the Holy Bible, and burned out his great life upon the altar of God.

Baron A. F. Forbes, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the San Francisco Young Men's Christian Association, referred to Moody's sterling work and characterized him as a general who had lost a right wing.

George C. Adams paid the final tribute to Mr. Moody, whom he said, was a peculiar product of Christian civilization.

"Moody was what he was," said Dr. Adams, "because the Bible got hold of him and he used it magnificently in the good mission of saving souls."

The schooner Point Eyes the lookout on the schooner arrived on the 1st of the arrival on which no reinsurance was paid. She was 140 days making the run from Hamburg and has made the run from Liverpool, 150, and the Cambay, 200 days. The latter vessel got into trouble off the Horn and had to put into Valparaiso for water.

The German ship Schwarzenbeck and German bark Birma were the other arrivals. The Schwarzenbeck made the run from Newcastle, Australia, in 74 days and the Birma came from Iquique in 98 days. Both vessels had uneventful passages.

The schooner Lena Sweasy arrived from Mazatlan yesterday with a cargo of cedar logs, and Captain Johnson reports that there is a fleet of at least twenty deep water ships off shore. In that event the list of arrivals should be very large.

When fifty miles west of Point Eyes the lookout on the schooner saw the arrival of the schooner

which had been running away from the longhorns to carry off the fumes of the drugs used in fumigating. In consequence when the longhorns got into the "ween decks" they were nearly suffocated, and after regaining the wharf again the longhorns could not see it in that light and it was dead ahead. This is probably the same derailed that has been sighted by passing vessels several times during the year, and the longhorns had probably been killed by the hunters who make their headquarters at Monterey and getting away from them in heavy weather has been drifting around ever since.

The stevedores working on the Gaelic had been thoroughly fumigated at the quarantine station in order to kill the rats. When brought ashore at the dock the stevedores were no windsails to carry off the fumes of the drugs used in fumigating. Rev. Charles R. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church delivered a sermon this morning in the Little World of Rev. L. Moody, and Rev. Dr. Caylor at the First Presbyterian Church likewise spoke on "Dwight L. Moody."

The quartet sang "Good Night, I Am Going Home," and the "Sweet Bye and Bye" was sung by the congregation. Benediction concluded the services.

Yale, statistician of the United States Mint, have prepared a preliminary statement, based on receipts at the Mint and other bullion depositories on this coast, which shows that California produced $1,000,000 gold and $200,000 silver last year, and silver to the amount of $15,000,000.

GILLIGAN—in this city, December 30, 1899, John, beloved son of Christopher Gilligan, a native of Alaska, during 1899, who died in the older mining regions. Many advantages have been taken of the low stage of water to repair and extend ditches and reservoirs, all of which will have an influence in an increased supply of water for the larger output of gold and silver for 1900.

Messrs. Leach and Yale have also prepared a corresponding estimate of the output of Alaska during 1899, which shows that the territory had doubled its gold product over the previous year.

The record for 1899 is: Gold, $4,917,821, and silver, $82,850, and with an output of gold of $2,371,124, and of silver of $2,371,124, shows an increase for the year of $2,400,709 in gold and $33,728 silver, or a total of $2,434,428. It should be stated that the returns of the United States Assay Office, Seattle, included in this statement as well as those of the United States Mint and private depositories.

An attempt has been made in connection with the Alaska output to segregate the amounts of gold received so as to approximately determine the yield of the new gold fields at Cape Nome, about which many errors have been committed.

It is found that of the total output of Alaska, $2,405,830 gold and $395, silver came from the beach and placers of Cape Nome and vicinity.

In view of a total gold product of $1,474,479 from Klondike $14,285 was taken to Eastern mints and assay offices and not deposited on this coast. A proportionate amount has doubtless been deposited on the coast, but it is difficult to estimate given. When all the statements of mints, refiners, assay offices, etc., are received from all over the United States, the figures of the output of the year will no doubt be somewhat larger than those given.

FR Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend the funeral to-morrow (Tuesday), at 9:30 o'clock, from the parsonage of the Rev. Mr. G. H. Gummel, 44 Ninth st., Oakland.
